THE HISTORY OF THE ROUGHRIDERS

There certainly have been some historic battles in the history of this team. And with the skills and talents of the players currently suiting up for the Saskatchewan Roughriders, it's safe to say the history books will soon have more memorable battles worth noting.

However, in order to look forward, we should first look back at where it all started.

Organized football in Saskatchewan began on Tuesday, September 6, 1910 with the formation of the Regina Rugby Club. The original idea was for the team to be a rowing club, but three-down football soon found its way to Saskatchewan. The original colours of the Regina Rugby Club were gold and purple. The team lost its first game 7-6 to a club from Moose Jaw.

The next season, the team changed its colours from gold and purple to blue and white in order to match the Regina Amateur Athletic Association and its colours. However, it amounted to just a one year stint in those colours as a third change occurred in 1912 when the Regina Rugby Club changed to a deep red and black, which they would keep for the next 36 years.

In 1924, the team changed its name from the Regina Rugby Club to the Regina Roughriders. The history behind this decision stems from a switch in names done by Ottawa's local Rugby Club. Since the 1890s, their Rugby Club had been called the Ottawa Rough Riders, but dropped the moniker in favour of the name 'Senators' in 1924. In conjunction with this announcement, Regina adopted the name "Roughriders".

There are two theories on where the name 'Roughriders' came from and why both Ottawa and Regina were fond of it.

One states that it came from the North West Mounted Police, who were called 'Roughriders' because they broke the wild horse broncos used by the force.

The other theory states there was a Canadian contingent who fought with Teddy Roosevelt in the Spanish-American War. Roosevelt's troops were known as the 'Roughriders'. Following the war, the troops returned to Canada, part settling in Ottawa, and the rest moving out West.

As the colours of the Roosevelt infantry were red and black, it was fitting that the Regina Roughriders chose to don those same shades.

In 1921, East-West interlocking games began being played for the Canadian Championship symbolized by the Grey Cup. Over an 11-year span, the Rugby Club/Roughriders played for the Grey Cup on seven occasions, unfortunately, losing each time.

In 1936, Regina banded with Winnipeg to form the Western Provincial Football Union.

The year 1948 was a milestone one for the Roughriders. With the folding of both football clubs in Moose Jaw and Saskatoon, the Regina Roughriders became a provincially-owned and operated club, surviving only on the undying support from the entire province. They became recognized as the Saskatchewan Roughrider Football Club.

Along with the transformation of the name, the team made a final change to its colours in 1948 to the familiar Green and White. The team was in desperate need of new uniforms. The decision to change colours wasn't a marketing idea or a fan contest promotion either. There was no public input. Instead, the almost 60-year legacy of the "Green and White" was born from pure happenstance after Roughrider executive member Jack Fyfe found and purchased a set of green and white jerseys at a surplus store in Chicago.

RIDER HISTORY

In 1956, the Roughriders suffered a terrible tragedy when players Gordon Sturtridge, Mel Beckett, Ray Syrnyk and Mario Demarco died in a plane crash while returning from an all-star game in Vancouver. Flight #810 crashed into Mt. Slesse in the Coastal Mountains just south of Chilliwack, B.C. The four players' uniforms are among the eight Roughrider numbers retired by the club. Dave Ridgway, Ron Lancaster, George Reed and Roger Aldag are the others.

Ten years removed from the tragic accident, the Roughriders, with coach Eagle Keys at the helm, saw their first great achievement. By defeating the Ottawa Rough Riders 29-14 in Vancouver's Empire Stadium on November 26th, 1966, Saskatchewan captured its first Grey Cup championship! Lancaster and Reed played key roles in leading the Riders to their first national title.

The Riders remained one of the best teams in the CFL for nearly 15 straight years, making the post-season every year from 1962 to 1976. Included in that span were five Grey Cup appearances, 1966 (which they won), 1967, '69, '72 and '76.

The Roughriders updated their uniforms one more time in 1985, adding black and silver to the Green and White, and featuring a new stylized 'S' logo.

The team had several lean years during the late-1970s and early 1980s, where poor on-field performances led to even worse revenue from the gates. However, fans remained positive that a turn-around would soon come and it did; by way of one of the best Grey Cup games ever played.

On November 19, 1989, kicker Dave Ridgway nailed a 35-yard field goal with two seconds left to seal the Roughriders' second ever Grey Cup championship with a 43-40 victory over the Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Toronto's SkyDome. The win, and 'The Kick', will likely go down as one of the best Grey Cup games ever played in the history of the CFL. Many of the players from that 77th Grey Cup game said the win was for one of their most cherished teammates, 13 year veteran offensive lineman Roger Aldag, Who would go on to play three more seasons before retiring in 1992.

The Riders made it to the championship game once more in 1997, when in Edmonton they lost 47-23 to the Doug Flutie-led Toronto Argonauts. Current players Chris Szarka, Gene Makowsky, Paul McCallum and Andrew Greene were all members of that Grey Cup finalist squad.

A new era of the Saskatchewan Roughrider Football Club began in 2000, when the organization hired Roy Shivers as its new General Manager and Director of Football Operations. Shivers' astute eye for talent enticed Danny Barrett to follow him to Saskatchewan and between the two, have since put together a perennial Grey Cup favourite.

The team and its fans have regained the glory of yesteryear while becoming one of the league's flagship franchises. Fans of the Saskatchewan Roughriders reside all across the country, and around the world for that matter.

Canada's team has now made the playoffs every year since 2002, including competing in two Western Division Finals in a row. The Roughriders are getting closer and closer to once again reaching the pinnacle of the CFL – the illustrious Grey Cup championship.

There is no question; this team is primed to add to its storied history.

HISTORY OF TAYLOR FIELD

The home of the Saskatchewan Roughriders has a long and proud history. From its earliest days when it was simply referred to as Rugby Field to its current stature as home to the Saskatchewan Roughriders, and the site of the 1995 and 2003 Grey Cups, Taylor Field certainly has a storied past.

Back in 1910, when the team was known as the Regina Rugby Club, the teams played on the field of Park Hughes (located at the current Taylor Field site). Families would come and circle the rugby field to watch the games. Over the years, temporary seating was put in place for fans, but many came and chose to sit on the grass and watch their favourite team.

In 1927, to accommodate the growing number of fans, Park Hughes and the adjoining Park de Young were re-configured to provide a better venue. More seating was added, but spectators still showed up and parked their cars at the touchline to watch the action.

A number of improvements to the field occurred in the year 1936 in order to make the fans more comfortable. Gone were the days of fans sitting along the sideline or jostling for position to see the action. New seating was built to accommodate the growing crowds. Also, a new press box was built and facilities were provided for radio broadcasts of the games.

In 1946, another major improvement to Park de Young was made. Prior to that year, the field at the site had never had turf. Each season, a new load of topsoil was dumped on the field to make it playable. Due to the dry Saskatchewan summers, the park became a dustbowl by the end of the season. But in 1946, the Regina Recreation Board agreed to seed the field to provide a quality surface for games to be played.

The year 1947 marked the renaming of Park de Young. The year before, Neil "Piffles" Taylor passed away. An instrumental part of the early development of the Roughriders, Taylor had been a player, coach, and executive for the team since its founding. Following Taylor's sudden death at the age of 48, the City of Regina renamed the Riders' home, Taylor Field.

A year later, a $47,000 investment in Taylor Field was approved in order to build a 4,500-seat grandstand on the west side of the playing area.

For the next several years the stadium remained relatively unchanged. It wasn't until the mid-1970s when it was agreed that it was time to move Taylor Field into the future.

Major renovation occurred, which included the addition of a second level to the west-side grandstand, new offices and dressing room facilities underneath as well as new artificial turf. The renovations allowed the Riders to move all operations into Taylor Field. It was an important step forward for the team.

In 1988, the Roughriders replaced the first artificial turf with a new type of system called OmniTurf. Unlike AstroTurf, OmniTurf was an inlay turf system, which relied on 300 tons of sand to hold it in place (rather than the traditional glued-down system). Over the years, a number of problems occurred with this system and it eventually became necessary to replace it prior to its usable age being reached.

In 1995, the Roughriders hosted the Grey Cup for the first time.

In conjunction with this, a number of renovations were needed for the stadium to meet the Canadian Football League standards. The existing press box area on the west side of the stadium was renovated resulting in a new area called Club Seating West.

TAYLOR FIELD

The area was built as a VIP area for the Grey Cup and later became corporate seating for the Riders. Because the new Club Seating area was built, displacing the media from their old seats, another area was needed as a media centre for the championship game. A new Club Seating East area was constructed on top of the existing east side stands. It was used to house all the visiting media for the big game. Following that, it was split, creating a new Roughrider media centre as well as more corporate seating for the organization.

In 2000, the Roughriders undertook a new turf project. In anticipation of hosting the 2003 Grey Cup, the team began to search out funding to replace the old OmniTurf. Due to great support from the community, the project was accomplished a year ahead of schedule and the new AstroTurf was in place prior to the beginning of the 2000 CFL season.

In preparation for the 2003 Grey Cup, temporary stands were built in the north and south endzones, enabling the grand ol' stadium to hold 51,000 spectators for the 91st Grey Cup championship on November 16th.

With a winfall of just over $2 million in revenue from Grey Cup '03, as well as an on-going share offering to its fans, the Roughriders are now using this new capital to leverage funds to enhance the stadium even more. Plans were unveiled in December, 2004 to upgrade Taylor Field and take the stadium into the future.

A state-of-the-art video board, new cluster sound system and new turf are just some of the improvements that will be made inside the stadium. There will also be a permanent set of stands built in the north endzone and the south endzone will be redeveloped to include a two-storey building that will house the team's administration offices, an improved Rider Store as well as a luxury corporate lounge on the second level overlooking the field.

Without question, Taylor Field will continue to remake itself to meet the needs of the CFL, the Saskatchewan Roughriders and its fans.

COMMUNITY-OWNED, COMMUNITY-MINDED

It stands to reason that if you're a community-owned franchise, you really should be out in the community.

Without question, the Saskatchewan Roughrider Football Club does just that.

In various ways throughout the year, Rider players, coaches, management, alumni and staff all lend a hand promoting the team and doing their part to give back to the people who support Green and White football each season.

Programs, initiatives and events like the Fine Foods Community Youth Challenge, the Rider Pride Alumni off-season charity hockey tour, the Regina Police Service's monthly Safety Patrol elementary school assemblies, and the inaugural Carry The Kettle First Nation celebrity/charity basketball game are just some of the many community-oriented outings the Roughriders participate in.

"Over the past three years, there has been a concerted effort to maintain and increase the club's presence throughout the province 12 months of the year," said Hugh McKay, former manager of community relations for the Riders, who has since taken over the stadium and corporate operations position. "We have more and more players staying here in the off-season now and that helps a lot in terms of getting out and being active in our community, which is the entire province."

McKay also mentioned the fact many of the players volunteer their time to different organizations and businesses as a way to give back as well.

"(Quarterback) Nealon Greene and our director of marketing Steve Mazurak visited hospitals in Saskatoon and brightened the day for some of our youngest and oldest fans," said McKay. "From what Steve said, Nealon was amazing with the kids who were ill. He signed some pictures for them and just talked football with them."

The Roughriders certainly do reach out to the youth of the province, especially through the Community Youth Challenge program, which is presented by Fine Foods retailers. Coordinated by defensive lineman Scott Schultz, several players, including Schultz, Jeremy O'Day, Neal Hughes and Dennis Mavrin, travel throughout Saskatchewan to over 100 communities to speak at the local schools on topics such as healthy choices, bullying and staying in school. Once the presentation is complete, students make a pledge to continue to follow the steps laid forth by the Rider player and if they meet the challenge, they are rewarded with tickets to a Roughrider game.

"The CYC program has been very successful over the years and we are proud of the way the players have represented the football club when speaking to the youth of Saskatchewan," said McKay. "Having a player as the coordinator of the program has really helped as well. The guys enjoy the responsibility."

Schultz said the travel involved in the CYC program could be tiresome at times, but he said the smiles on the faces of the students made it all worthwhile.

"When you make a long trip to say Cumberland House or somewhere way up there like that, it's definitely a long haul. But the kids are what matter and although it seems like no big deal to us to sit and talk to them about all kinds of things, to them, it really is something I think they'll never forget," said Schultz.

Roughrider kicker Paul McCallum also knows first-hand what it means to be community-minded as he is the SaskEnergy Catch for KidSport Ambassador. For the past seven years, SaskEnergy and the Riders have been raising funds for the SaskEnergy Catch for KidSport program. The program helps kids from less fortunate families right across the province participate in community sports programs.

During the regular season, SaskEnergy donates $25 for every completed reception and field goal, as well as $100 for every touchdown the team makes. The company doubled those amounts for the Roughriders' two playoff games. In total, it amounted to $17,850 worth of game day contributions to KidSport Saskatchewan in 2004.

Besides the high-profile partnerships, the Riders also have several players who donate their time and name-recognition to businesses looking to increase their traffic. Offensive lineman Andrew Greene spent an afternoon signing autographs at Michaels – The Arts and Crafts Store in east Regina. Along with Greene, his young son Rashad and dozens of customers, the store held a successful Family Day where the children worked together to construct various crafts and art projects.

The Riders have also committed speakers to numerous radiothons, dinners and events as well as countless prize donations to everything from Telemiracle to a 4-on-4 hockey tournament in Porcupine Plain. In fact, the club receives 10 to 15 requests per day via letters, faxes, emails and telephone inquires from around Saskatchewan, with the majority of them being fulfilled.

"I think it's extremely important for us to support those who support us," concluded club president and CEO Jim Hopson. "We understand what it means to these communities to have a Roughrider come and visit or have an item from the team donated to their respective event. It's something we will continue to strive to get better at so that each community feels as if they're a part of what the Saskatchewan Roughriders are made of."

After all, community is indeed what the Green and White are all about.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Graham Barker

CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

At the 2005 Annual Meeting of Members, Graham Barker was sworn in as the Chairman of the Saskatchewan Roughriders' Board of Directors.

Barker has been a member of the team's management committee since 2001 and has been a season ticket holder since 1972.

A Saskatchewan native, Barker sidetracked from a teaching career when a broadcasting opportunity arose. Six years later, he left radio for a career in marketing communications, first with Saskatchewan Tourism, then on to the agency world in 1975. He started his own company in 1982 with a staff of one, and just one account. Today, his advertising agency, The Phoenix Group, employs 25 employees. The Phoenix Group was named Regina's Business and Community Leader of the Year in 2003.

In addition to his wide range of expertise in the business community, Barker has served as the VP of Marketing for the 2001 Memorial Cup and the RCMP Heritage Centre Project. He was also the Honorary Chair of the YWCA Corporate Campaign in 2003.

Jim Hopson

PRESIDENT AND CEO

On October 20, 2004, Saskatchewan Roughrider Chairman of the Board Garry Huntington appointed Jim Hopson as the club's first Chief Executive Officer. Hopson's first official duties began on January 2, 2005 as President and CEO. His role with the Roughriders includes overseeing general office management and the day-to-day business operations of the football club. Hopson brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the organization. Prior to his current position, he was the CEO/Director of Education for the Qu'Appelle Valley School Division. Hopson also spent a number of years as the CEO/Director of Education and Superintendent of Student Services with the Buffalo Plains School Division. He also spent 15 years as a teacher and principal throughout southern Saskatchewan.

Hopson's roots with the Saskatchewan Roughriders run deep. Hopson's first year in the Canadian Football League was 1973, where he made the Roughriders as a backup and was on the roster for five games. Hopson was promoted to starter in 1974 and lined up for each game during the season. Hopson, a native of Regina, played four seasons with Saskatchewan. The six-foot-two, 240-pound guard was instrumental in opening holes for the Riders' running game, which included the likes of legendary back George Reed, and in keeping quarterback great Ron Lancaster protected.

Hopson began his football career in high school, where he started man-handling the defensive opponents of his Thom Collegiate Trojans. After high school, Hopson spent one semester at West Texas State University before passing up his football scholarship to play at home with one of the top junior football programs in the country, the Regina Rams. As a Regina Ram, Hopson was chosen as a Man.-Sask. League All-star two straight seasons and was named the league's Most Outstanding Lineman in 1972. He attended the University of Saskatchewan, Regina Campus, where he studied education and successfully became a teacher. From teaching in Lumsden, SK during his final two years of playing professionally to spending the 2001 to 2004 seasons as a special advisor on the Roughriders' Board of Directors, this franchise has never been far from his mind.

Jim and his wife Marilyn have a son and daughter and are proud to call Regina their year-round home.

Carmelo Carteri was born and raised in Regina. Carm is a graduate of O'Neill high school, where he began his football career. Following his high school career, the linebacker accepted a scholarship to Porterville, CA to attend junior college and play football. He achieved MVP honours once again before moving on to the University of Montana. Carm was the first pick of the Ottawa Rough Riders in 1979, beginning a six-year career in the Canadian Football League that saw him spend three seasons with the Saskatchewan Roughriders, two as a Tiger-Cat in Hamilton and one season in Montreal. Carm was an Eastern All-star linebacker in 1981 with Hamilton. Since his retirement from pro football in 1985, Carm has owned and operated the Regina Court and Fitness Club in southwest Regina. The club is the most-preferred training centre for Roughrider players. Carm is entering his 17th year as a colour commentator for 620 CKRM Rider Radio. Carm was honoured to be selected as a colour commentator for the 1989 and 1995 Grey Cup game radio broadcasts. His knowledge of the game and of the Saskatchewan Roughrider Football Club is instrumental in the success of each Rider broadcast.
